This disclosure is being provided to you to inform you of the potential savings available to you if you choose to close as a CEMA.

The State of New York charges a mortgage tax when a new mortgage is recorded. The amount of mortgage tax varies by county, loan size, and subject property units.

CEMA stands for Consolidation, Extension & Modification Agreement. It is a unique process in New York that combine two or more loans into a new, consolidated loan. Closing a loan as a CEMA allows a borrower to reduce the amount of mortgage tax due by taking advantage of any tax previously paid on the existing mortgage and receive credit for that amount when recording the consolidated (new) mortgage. Payment of mortgage tax on a CEMA is reduced to the applicable tax rate for only any “new money” borrowed (the difference between the new loan amount and the unpaid principal balance on the original loan). Depending on the mortgage tax rate and loan size, the savings can be significant.

Below is an estimate of the fees related to your transaction and the potential savings available to you with CEMA.
